User Content

Certain sections of the Services allow you to input and store information regarding published patent applications, including but not limited to the numbers of applications and the identity of attorney(s), agent(s), assignee(s) and/or other parties associated with such applications ("Published Application Content"). You grant and assign to Juristat, a perpetual, irrevocable, unlimited, fully paid, fully sub-licensable, worldwide license to copy, perform, display, distribute, prepare derivative works from (including, without limitation, incorporating into other works), and otherwise use, any Published Application Content that you input and store, for any purpose whatsoever (including, without limitation, advertising, commercial, promotional, and publicity purposes) in any media formats and through any media channels, including through programmatic interfaces such as APIs and a Model Context Protocol (MCP), in Juristat's discretion without notice, approval, attribution, or consideration to you or to any other person or entity. You represent and warrant that you have all rights necessary to grant and assign the foregoing license, that neither the permission nor consent of any other person or entity is required to enable Juristat to legally use the Published Application Content in accordance with this license, that all Published Application Content provided to Juristat by you or anyone else using your account complies with all applicable laws, rules, and regulations, and that Juristat's use of the Published Application Content in accordance with this license will not violate or infringe upon the rights of any person or entity.

MODEL CONTEXT PROTOCOL (MCP) ACCESS

Juristat makes certain data available through its Model Context Protocol (MCP) server (the “MCP Service”), which enables AI assistants and compatible applications to access Juristat’s patent and intellectual property analytics, benchmarking, agentic workflows (including the ability to generate reports and other outputs based on user inputs), and related data (collectively, “MCP Data”). Access to the MCP Service is subject to these Terms, including the additional provisions set forth in this section. By downloading, accessing, implementing, enabling access to, or using the MCP Service or any MCP Data, whether directly or through any other means, including but not limited to, AI assistant, MCP client, or other compatible application, you agree to be bound by all provisions of these Terms, including this section. You are responsible for any use of, and reliance upon, MCP Data by you or any persons or entities to whom you provide access, and for ensuring that such use complies with these Terms.

Intellectual Property ; License Grant.

MCP Service. As between Juristat and you, Juristat owns all right, title and interest, in and to, the MCP Service. Subject to your compliance with these Terms, Juristat grants you a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicensable, revocable right to access and use the MCP Service solely as made available to you by Juristat and solely for the permitted uses described in this Section. You may access the MCP Service only through authorized interfaces and in accordance with any applicable documentation, usage limits and technical requirements specified herein or otherwise by Juristat. All rights not expressly granted herein are reserved by Juristat.

Use of the MCP Service does not expand any rights you may have to access or use MCP Data made available through other Juristat interfaces or properties, and you may not use the MCP Service to circumvent any restrictions or access controls applicable to such interfaces or properties.

MCP Data. As between Juristat and you, Juristat (and its licensors, as applicable) own(s) all right, title and interest, in and to, the MCP Data. Subject to your compliance with these Terms, Juristat grants you a limited, non-exclusive, non-transferable, non-sublicensable, revocable license to access and use MCP Data solely as expressly permitted in this section. For the avoidance of doubt, use of MCP Data in combination with, or as input to, any AI assistant, MCP client, or other automated tool, and any transformation, summarization or modification of MCP Data, does not expand your rights to use such MCP Data. All rights not expressly granted herein are reserved by Juristat.

Authentication.

You are solely responsible for safeguarding access to your connection to the MCP Service (including your account) and for all actions or tasks performed through the MCP Service, including by an AI assistant, MCP client, or other automated tool acting on your behalf, as if you had taken those actions directly through the Services. You are responsible for maintaining the security and confidentiality of any credentials, API keys, tokens or access mechanisms used to access the MCP Service, and for all activities conducted using them. You must promptly notify Juristat of any unauthorized access to or use of the MCP Service or any compromise of your credentials. We are not liable for any losses by any party caused by an unauthorized use of the Services in relation to the MCP Service through a connection you formed or your account, or any command submitted through the MCP Service. Juristat is not responsible for the conduct or output of any AI assistant, MCP client, or other automated tool you use to access the MCP Service, including any outputs generated using MCP Data. Submissions, messages, content, and other actions initiated through the MCP Service (including those initiated by any AI assistant, MCP client or other automated tool acting on your behalf) are subject to all applicable provisions of these Terms as if initiated directly through the Services.

MCP Data Attribution Requirements.

Any display of MCP Data must prominently attribute Juristat as the source of such data and include a link to the applicable listing on Juristat.com. Attribution must appear in close proximity to the displayed MCP Data and must clearly identify Juristat as the origin of the information. Attribution must not be obscured, minimized, visually de-emphasized, or otherwise presented in a manner that could mislead a user as to the source of the data. Where MCP Data is presented in a voice-enabled or non-visual surface, attribution to Juristat must be audibly disclosed to the end user.

Prohibited MCP Uses.

In addition to the Usage Restrictions set forth elsewhere in these Terms, you may not use the MCP Service or MCP Data:

- To build, train, improve, or contribute to any product, service, platform, or database that competes with Juristat or that aggregates, analyzes, benchmarks, predicts, indexes, or displays patent prosecution, intellectual property or legal analytics data as a core feature;
- In or as part of any product or service that does not add substantial independent value or functionality beyond the display of MCP Data;
- To support any publicly distributed or third-party-facing product or service, except to display MCP Data in connection with a use otherwise expressly permitted under these Terms or expressly authorized by Juristat in writing;
- As training data, fine-tuning data, reinforcement learning data, evaluation data, or in any other manner to develop or improve any machine learning model, large language model, or artificial intelligence system;
- To circumvent, disable, or interfere with any rate limits, access controls, authentication mechanisms, human confirmation requirements, or usage monitoring associated with the MCP Service;
- To scrape, bulk-download, or systematically extract MCP Data beyond what is necessary to fulfill a specific end-user request;
- In connection with MCP clients, AI assistants, LLMs, third-party MCP servers or connectors, or any other service where you know or ought to reasonably know could lead to third-party AI model training, improvement or any other use that is prohibited under these Terms. Without limiting the generality of the foregoing, this includes usage of free LLM model providers that require model training on inputs or failure to disable model training permissions for AI assistants.
- To derive synthetic data for any purpose that would otherwise be prohibited if done with the source MCP Data.
- In violation of applicable laws or regulations, or in any manner that would cause Juristat to violate applicable laws or regulations.

Rate Limits and Fair Use

You agree to comply with any rate limits, call volume restrictions, and usage policies Juristat publishes from time to time in connection with the MCP Service. Juristat may monitor and analyze your use of the MCP Service to ensure compliance with these Terms and any applicable usage policies. Juristat reserves the right, in its sole discretion, to throttle, suspend, or terminate your access to the MCP Service if your usage exceeds reasonable limits, adversely affects the performance of Juristat's systems, or is inconsistent with the permitted uses described in this section.

No Warranty; MCP Data Accuracy.

MCP Data is provided "as is" and without warranty of any kind. Juristat makes no representations or warranties regarding the completeness, accuracy, timeliness, or fitness for a particular purpose of MCP Data delivered through the MCP Service. MCP Data may be transformed, summarized or otherwise modified when used with AI assistants, MCP clients or other automated tools, and such outputs may be incomplete or inaccurate. You are solely responsible for reviewing and evaluating any outputs derived from MCP Data before relying on them. All disclaimers set forth in the Disclaimer of Warranties section of these Terms apply equally to MCP Data.

Termination of MCP Access.

Juristat may modify, suspend or discontinue the MCP Service (in whole or in part), including any features, functionality or MCP Data made available through it, at any time, with or without notice, and without any obligations to ensure continued compatibility with earlier versions of the MCP Service. Juristat may suspend or terminate your access to the MCP Service at any time, with or without notice, for any reason, including for violation of these Terms or for any activity that Juristat, in its sole discretion, determines to be harmful to Juristat, its users, or the integrity of its data. Termination of MCP access does not relieve you of any obligations incurred prior to termination or of any obligations under these Terms that by their nature continue to apply with respect to MCP Data received before termination.

GOVERN THE SALE AND PURCHASE OF ALL SUBSCRIPTIONS TO JURISTAT'S PRODUCTS, SOFTWARE, DATA, SERVICES, AND WEBSITE (COLLECTIVELY, THE "SERVICES"), INCLUDING ANY RENEWALS. THESE TERMS CONSTITUTE A BINDING AND ENFORCEABLE LEGAL AGREEMENT BETWEEN YOU AND JURISTAT. IT IS IMPORTANT THAT YOU READ AND UNDERSTAND THESE TERMS. BY CLICKING THE "PURCHASE" BUTTON (OR A SIMILAR BUTTON) PRESENTED TO YOU AT THE TIME OF PURCHASE, YOU ACKNOWLEDGE THAT YOU HAVE READ, UNDERSTOOD, AND AGREED TO BE BOUND BY THESE TERMS.

If you have entered into a separate written agreement with Juristat for the sale and purchase of a subscription to the Services, different terms may apply. Refer to your separate written agreement or contact a Juristat sales representative to discuss your agreement.

1. Authority.

You represent and warrant that you are at least 18 years of age and have the legal capacity and authority to accept this Agreement. If you are accepting this Agreement on behalf of an organization or other entity, you represent and warrant that you have the legal capacity and authority to bind that organization or entity to this Agreement. All terms in this Agreement will apply to the organization or entity on whose behalf you are accepting this Agreement.

2. Services.

Subject to the terms of this Agreement, you may access and use the Services to the extent permitted herein and in the subscription package you select at the time of purchase. Non-unlimited users may spend one report credit to access one report within Juristat's Report Services. Non-unlimited users will have unlimited access including continual data updates to reports they have purchased for the duration of their Juristat subscription term, including renewals of the subscription if renewed for an equal or higher tier subscription package. If the subscription is renewed for an equal or higher subscription tier, unused report credits will roll over into subsequent subscription term, otherwise they will be forfeit. Notwithstanding the foregoing, your access and use of the Services, including but not limited to all Report Services, will immediately cease upon termination of your subscription if your subscription is not renewed for an equal or higher tier subscription package or upon termination of this Agreement. Services may also be temporarily suspended or discontinued at any time for modifications, updates, improvements, or to address security concerns. If Juristat permanently discontinues a significant part of the Services in its entirety, you will have the option to cancel your subscription, but you will not receive a refund of any amounts already paid. Your subscription package may not include access to all available Services or new Services that become available during your subscription.

3. Modifications.

Juristat may modify these terms or any additional terms that apply to the Services at any time to, for example, reflect changes to the law or the Services. You should check these terms regularly. Juristat will post modifications to these terms on this page. By continuing to use or access the Services after the revisions come into effect, you agree to be bound by the revised terms.

4. Fees.

By purchasing a subscription package from Juristat, you commit to paying for a full year of service. You will be charged the amount stated at the time of purchase and then you will be charged that amount again every month for the duration of your annual subscription. Fees are non-refundable except as required by law. You are responsible for providing complete and accurate billing and contact information to Juristat. A credit card must be kept on file at all times, and may be charged if your account becomes delinquent. Juristat may suspend or terminate your account or your access to the Services if fees become past due.

5. Taxes.

You are responsible for all applicable taxes, if any. Juristat will charge tax when required to do so. If you are required by law to withhold any taxes, you must provide Juristat with an official tax receipt or other appropriate documentation.

6. Term.

This Agreement and your annual subscription begin as soon as your initial payment is processed and will continue for one year unless renewed or terminated as set forth herein.

7. Automatic Renewal.

YOUR SUBSCRIPTION WILL RENEW AUTOMATICALLY AT THE END OF YOUR ANNUAL TERM. RENEWAL FEES, TERMS, AND RATES ARE SUBJECT TO CHANGE, BUT JURISTAT WILL ALWAYS NOTIFY YOU OF ANY SUCH CHANGES BEFOREHAND.

8. Termination.

You may stop using the Services at any time, but doing so does not relieve you of any obligation to pay any outstanding fees. You are still responsible for the full amount of your annual subscription. Juristat may terminate this Agreement at any time if: (i) you materially breach this Agreement, (ii) you or your account administrator fails to pay applicable fees owed to Juristat, (iii) you or your account administrator requests termination, or (iv) either party ceases its business operations or becomes subject to insolvency proceedings.

We use information about you to provide the Services to you, including, but not limited to, processing transactions with you, authenticating your account when you log in, providing customer support, and operating and maintaining the Services.

We use your information to resolve technical issues you encounter, respond to your requests for assistance, analyze crash information, repair and improve the Services, and communicate with you regarding such support.

We use collective learnings about how users use and interact with the Services, as well as feedback provided directly to us, to troubleshoot; to identify trends, usage, activity patterns, and areas for integration and improvement of the Services; and to research and develop new products and services.

We use your contact information to send transactional communications via email and within the Services, including confirming your purchases, reminding you of subscription expirations, responding to your comments, questions and requests, providing customer support, and sending you technical notices, updates, security alerts, and administrative messages. We also may provide tailored communications based on your activity and interactions with us. For example, certain actions you take in the Services may automatically trigger a feature or third-party application suggestion within the Services that would make that task easier. We also send you communications as you onboard to a particular Service to help you become more proficient in using that Service. These communications are part of the Services.

We use your contact information and information about how you use the Services to send promotional communications that may be of interest to you, including information about new features or products, promotional offers, survey requests, newsletters, blog posts, articles, and other information we think may be of interest to you. These communications are aimed at driving engagement and maximizing what you get out of the Services.

We use information about you and your use of the Services to verify and secure your accounts. We may also use such information to monitor suspicious or fraudulent activity or to identify violations of our policies.

Where required by law or where we believe it is necessary to protect our legal rights or interests, or the interests of others, we may use information about you in connection with legal claims, compliance, regulatory, and audit functions, as well as disclosures in connection with the acquisition, merger, or sale of a business.

We use information about you where you have given us consent to do so for a specific purpose not listed above. For example, we may publish testimonials or featured customer stories to promote the Services, with your permission.

Sharing Your Information

Juristat will not sell your information to advertisers or other third parties without your consent.

Juristat may share your information with Juristat officers, employees, and agents to provide, improve, protect, and promote the Services, as set forth in this Privacy Policy. In the event Juristat merges with or is purchased by another business or otherwise undergoes a change of ownership, all collected information may be transferred to the new owner.

Juristat may also use certain trusted third parties to help provide, improve, protect, and promote the Services. These third parties will access your information only to perform tasks on our behalf and in compliance with this Privacy Policy.

Juristat may share or publish aggregate information that does not specifically identify you, such as statistical information about visitors to our website or how customers use the Services.

Juristat may share your information with companies, organizations, or individuals outside of Juristat when we have your consent to do so.

Juristat may share information, such as your name, user name, or information regarding your use of the Services, to other users from your business or organization to, for example, inform other users that your business or organization already has other account(s) with Juristat, negotiate agreements with your business or organization, or promote the Services to your business or organization. Account administrators for your business or organization may also have the ability to access, monitor, and review your account, the information provided in your account, and your use of the Services.

Juristat may disclose your information to third parties if we determine that such disclosure is reasonably necessary to comply with the law, protect any person from death or serious bodily injury, prevent fraud or abuse, or protect Juristat's rights.

Notwithstanding anything in this Privacy Policy, Juristat will never share or disclose your unpublished, unfiled, or draft patent application data or claims or any of your search queries or results with any third parties or use any such data in any of Juristat's marketing, advertising, blog posts, articles, or any other public medium, without your express permission, unless required by law or where we believe it is necessary to protect our legal rights or interests, or the interests of others.

Data Storage, Retention, and Security

We use data hosting service providers to host the information we collect, and we use reasonable safeguards to secure your data. However, no security system is impenetrable, and due to the inherent nature of the internet, we cannot guarantee that data, during transmission through the Internet or while stored on our systems or otherwise in our care, is absolutely safe from intrusion by others. Juristat may retain your information for as long as necessary for the purposes described in this Privacy Policy, to the extent permitted by applicable law.

Third-Party Payment Processors

Juristat may use third-party payment processors, such as Stripe or Xero, to process payments. When making payment through these third-party processors, you provide all payment information, such as credit card details, directly to the third-party, and the use and collection of such information is governed by the third-party's privacy policies and terms. Juristat does not store credit card details and instead relies upon these third-party payment processors.

Links to Third-Party Websites

For your use and convenience, the Services may provide links to third-party websites, not owned, operated, or controlled by Juristat. The collection and use of your information by such third-parties is governed by their own privacy policies and terms, and not this Privacy Policy. This Privacy Policy applies only to Juristat and its Services, and not to any information you provide, directly or indirectly, to any third party.

Access and Control of Your Information

To the extent permitted by applicable law, you may have the right to access, update, or correct your information; to request a copy of your information; to object to our use of your information; to opt out of certain communications; or to request deletion of your information. You may exercise any such rights by contacting Juristat using any of the methods described on our contact page. Your rights may be limited in certain cases where applicable law or your business or organization's contract with Juristat permits Juristat's retention and use of your information. If you have unresolved concerns, you may have the right to complain to a data protection authority in the country where you live, where you work, or where you believe your rights were infringed.

Juristat may revise this Privacy Policy at any time. Modifications will be posted to this page. You should check this page regularly. We will also notify active owners of active Juristat accounts or any significant changes to this Privacy Policy via email, through the user interface in the Services, or via other reasonable means.
